GAVE AID OUT OF LOYALTY, MASCHKE SAYS

Veteran Leader Takes Stand; Tells of Friendship for Bernstein's Father.

DENIES GUILT IN COURT

Testifies That Signing of $120,000 Note Was Act of Generosity.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 11—Denying guilt in a voice choked with emotion, Maurice Maschke, veteran Republican leader, told from the witness stand today in his trial on charges of aiding embezzlement of $177,273 from the county treasury, how he came to aid of former Deputy Treasurer Alex Bernstein out of a sense of loyalty and obligation to his father.

Speaking hesitantly before a courtroom hushed by a tale of old friendships, Maschke explained how he signed a note for $120,000 to make good "bad" checks held by Bernstein.

To Bernstein's father, the late Harry ("Czar") Bernstein, Maschke paid the tribute of being his guiding political light years ago when he first started his climb to party prominence.

"I remembered all that his (Alex Bernstein's) father had done for me. * * * so I signed the note," he concluded simply.

Told About Checks

"Was it explained to you," Prosecutor P. L. A. Leighley asked, * * * "that he (Bernstein) had received checks from his clients and had deposited them in his own account, giving his own checks to the treasury?"

"Yes," answered Maschke.

"Did it occur to you that that might make of him an embezzler?"

"Yes."

Maschke, under questioning by Prosecutor Leighley, described his friendship with the late Harry Berstein, father of the former deputy treasurer. To him Maschke attributed much of his political rise.

"From my earliest recollections he did all he could to help me," he said. "He perhaps paved the way for putting me in any position of prominence I may have held."

"I can't understand," Leighley said, "why you signed the $120,000 note without obtaining more details about the transaction."

"Act of Generosity"

"I did an act of generosity," Maschke replied. "I didn't want to conduct an inquisition."

Maschke told how Beckerman came to him with the account of the need for funds to meet Rosenblatt's checks, and how he gave his aid to Bernstein out of friendship.

"Has Bernie (Alex Bernstein) taken his money out of the treasury?" I asked Beckerman. Beckerman said "No, this money is to redeem Rosenblatt's checks."

"You are charged in this case with having aided and abetted Alex Bernstein in the embezzlement of $177,273 of the people's money from the county treasury. Did you do that?" asked Leighley.

"I did not," Maschke answered.

Q.—"You are charged with having stolen that amount of money. Did you do that?"

A.—"I did not."

Maschke was preceded to the stand by Henry A. Beckerman, one of four co-defendants, who testified he helped pay $120,000 to make good "bad" tax checks of the late Attorney Charles Rosenblatt in 1928.

Beckerman said he "took the word" of City Councilman Herman H. Finkle that Rosenblatt had about $100,000 in tax checks in the treasury, and that his own action was one of befriending Bernstein and Finkle.

KIDNAPERS RELEASE BANKER UNHARMED

Escape Trap After Being Alarmed by Stories; No Ransom Paid.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Somewhat unnerved but otherwise unharmed, Norman E. Collins, Chicago banker, was back at his home today after having been freed by kidnapers who released him, and escaped a trap police set for them. No ransom money was paid.

Collins, held captive for 32 hours, was set free when the five [illegible] who had seized him and his wife yesterday morning near their home in patrician Winnetka, apparently became alarmed at the headlined activities of officials investigating the affair. Mrs. Collins had been released earlier.

When she returned to her home, she found a note thrust under the door, directing her to drive along a designated route in northwest Chicago, with the ransom demanded, $5,000.

Operatives of the Secret Six, Chicago [illegible] organization, were enlisted, and Alexander Jamie, head of the body, [illegible]

WILBUR VOICES HOOVER PLEA

Appeals to Citizens To Re-elect President and "Preserve America."

LEADERS HURL CHARGES

Both Sides Flay Opposition in Numerous Widespread Political Rallies.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 11—Secretary Wilbur of the interior declared in an address here last night that "the last great battle against the depression is to win for Herbert Hoover."

Speaking at a Republican rally, Secretary Wilbur called upon his audience to reelect Mr. Hoover and "preserve America."

He said "the bet of the Democratic party is the protest vote," and asked if the people, "with the welfare of their nation at stake would voice their irritation at the polls or use their wits?"

The coming election was termed "not a test of the leadership of President Hoover, but a test of the citizens of the United States."

Wilbur said "the critical and outstanding question before the American people today is whether they are to be misled in voting the depression or whether they have the understanding, character and the wisdom to use their common sense in making the great decision, for it is a great decision."

Speaking on the program with the secretary, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman said "if there is any program discoverable in Roosevelt's glittering generalities and utopian promises, it is a program of paternalism—the state as a whole caring for the individual."

By The Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 11—Judge George C. Gibbs denied today a defense motion for a directed verdict in behalf of George C. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham, former prison guards, on trial charged with murdering Arthur Maillefert in a sweat box.

The motion was presented by their attorneys soon after the defense took the case at the opening of court.

The defense contends Maillefert chose suicide as the way to end his seven-year term for robbing a filling station.

After the court denied its motion the defense began the presentation of testimony purporting to show the [illegible] suicide by [illegible]

WARREN, O., Oct. 11 — Col. Ralph Cole of Findlay, state commander of the American Legion, suffered injuries of the neck and a hand when his automobile skidded off the road near Parkman early today and overturned into a ditch.

Cole was brought to the Warren city hospital, where his condition was pronounced not serious.

James V. Suhr of Cleveland, ninth district commander of the legion, who was riding with Col. Cole, was not hurt.

The two were driving to Cleveland after attending a joint installation of the Trumbull post here.

OFFICIALS INQUIRE INTO BUSH PAROLE

Board Answers Baker by Telling How Gunman Gained Freedom.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 11—Disclosure that Francis E. (Mach) Bush, paroled Ohio penitentiary convict, involved in a gun battle here Saturday, obtained his parole partly on a plea that he had been "punished enough" by a police "third-degree," was studied today by Cleveland officials.

Bush was captured and his companion, Norman Townsend, also a paroled Ohio convict, was killed by police in the gun fight which followed an attempted jewelry store robbery.

The grounds on which Bush obtained his parole were revealed by the Ohio parole board late yesterday after Newton D. Baker, president of the Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice, charged the board failed to investigate properly before granting [illegible]

VICTIM OF NUTTING ACCIDENT SUCCUMBS

Little Margaret Young Dies of Injury Suffered When Struck on Head by Pipe.

Death came to little Margaret Lucille Young, victim of a Sunday nutting party Accident that resulted in a punctured brain, today at 6:45 a. m. at the City hospital.

Blond, curley-haired "Peggy," 4, was struck on top of the head by a piece of iron pipe thrown into a hickory nut tree by her father, Raymond L. Young of 141 Reed avenue. The father made sure that no one was standing under the tree before he threw the pipe but it struck a limb, veered off and fell onto the top of the child's head, going two inches into the skull and puncturing the brain.

The little girl was conscious from the time she was injured late Sunday afternoon until early this morning. At 1 this morning she was in a semi-conscious state and called several times for "daddy." At 10 last night a change was noticed in her condition and she began to sink. She was unconscious when she died.

"Peggy" was born in Marion Jan. 30, 1928, to Raymond L. Young, a native of Hardin county and Florence Stoner Young, a native of Marion.

Besides her parents she leaves her brothers and sister, all of whom witnessed the accident, William, Robert, Donald, Jack, Paul and Patricia Ann.

She attended the cradle roll department of the First Church of the Brethren.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2:15 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 p. m. at the First Church of the Brethren. Rev. O. G. Canfield, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. The body will be at the home.

FIND COLLEGE LEADER DEAD

Former President of W. & J. School Apparent Suicide Victim.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 11—The body of Simon S. Baker, 66, former president of Washington and Jefferson college, was found in a field two miles northeast of Washington by a pipe line walker today. Police said he apparently had committed suicide.

Dr. Baker had been shot once through the left temple. His body lay beside a fence about 300 feet from a main highway. His left hand grasped a pistol.

County Detective W. B. Dinsmore said Dr. Baker apparently had shot himself about 8 o'clock last night.

The aged educator had brooded since he resigned as president of Washington & Jefferson last year. The school was his alma mater and he had headed it 10 years.

His retirement followed a strike of students in protest against the dismissal of two professors and the possibility of disciplinary action against two football players accused of fighting in a hotel.

Friends of Dr. Baker said he left the school a "broken hearted man." In Pittsburgh he led a quiet life and often was subject to spells of melancholia.

He had been missing from home about 24 hours.

2 INDICTED ON BRIBE CHARGE

Youngstown Contractors Accused by Grand Jury; Newspaper Officials Arrested.

FALSE FIGURES CHARGED

Editor Calls It "Another Round in Battle with Prosecutor."

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 11—Charges that two contractors attempted a $300,000 bribery of a public official here, in connection with sanitary district construction work and a series of accusations against several officials of the Youngstown Telegram were included today in a report of the Mahoning county grand jury.

Two officials of the Telegram, John T. Watters, business manager, and James J. Morrissey, circulation manager, were arrested late yesterday on indictments by the grand jury and additional arrests on secret indictments were expected today. Watters and Morrissey, charged with falsifying circulation figures to deceive the paper's advertisers, were released on $5,000 bonds.

"This is only one round in a long battle with the county prosecutor over public affairs," said Felix Bruner, editor of the Telegram, after the grand jury's report was made public.

An editorial in the Telegram said that following its established policy, it would not comment on matters before a court.

Watters said he was content to leave his case in the hands of the court confident of acquittal.

Attacked Prosecutor

Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas, who directed the grand jury's inquiry, was attacked by the Telegram, a year ago in an unsuccessful attempt to remove him from office. Several months later, the grand jury criticised Telegram officials for the manner in which they conducted the purchase from the city of the site for the present Telegram building. The paper got a downtown site in the deal for $120,000.

The present grand jury included in its charges an allegation that Albert A. Reilly, vice president and associate editor of the Telegram approached Fred LaBelle, a director of the Mahoning valley sanitary district, a $9,000,000 project, "for the purpose of attempting to influence Labelle in awarding certain contracts."

The contracts were sought, the grand jury said, for a [illegible]

EXTRADITION FIGHT PLANNED

Illinois To Send Aids to Greece in Effort To Return Insull.

OCCUPIES JAIL QUARTERS

Denies Companies' Failures Were Fraudulent; Source of Funds Sought.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — State's Attorney John A. Swanson today said he planned to send assistants to Greece to aid in extradition of Samuel Insull, fallen utilities czar indicted on charges of larceny and embezzlement.

* * *

ATHENS, Greece—Samuel Insull was held by Greek police who arrested him on request of the American legation. Previously he had been "detained" while officials studied his passport. Newspapers quoted Insull as saying his companies' failure were not fraudulent and that he was here "merely as a tourist."

* * *

WASHINGTON — Government officials expressed the opinion that while an extradition treaty with Greece had not reached official status, both countries had signified agreement to clauses of the document and that little difficulty was anticipated in extradition proceedings to return Insull to Chicago.

* * *

PARIS—Samuel Insull, Jr., who accompanied his father in the flight from Paris last week after publication of the indictments, refused comments. The senior Mrs. Insull remained in seclusion.

LEADERS HERE TO AID WORK

Local Program Will Be Part of Nationwide Rehabilitation Movement.

COMMITTTEE HEADS NAMED

Carl LaMarche, Fred Scherff To Direct Activities in This District.

Industries in Marion county will be asked within the next few days to cooperate in two nationwide movements to stimulate employment and to finance industrial building and plant activities.

Both movements, growing out of a White House conference of industrial and banking executives last Aug. 26, have been organized through the federal reserve districts. Marion county chairmen to carry on the work in this county were appointed this week.

Launch Drive Here

The first movement to get under way here will be that of the industrial rehabilitation committee of the ninth subdivision of the Fourth federal reserve district, of which Marion county is a part. E. M. Olin of Mansfield, Westinghouse executive, and A. D. Caddell of Mansfield, secretary of the Mansfield Manufacturers' association, who have been named chairman and assistant chairman respectively for the Ninth subdistrict of the industrial rehabilitation committee, will meet with Marion manufacturers and financiers Wednesday night in the Marion City club to explain Marion county's part in the nationwide movement.

Carl F. LaMarche, treasurer of the American Malleable Castings Co. of Marion, has been appointed by Olin as chairman for Marion county, and will head the committee's activities here. Both Olin and [illegible] will speak at the meeting Wednesday night.

The purpose of the committee is to improve our economic situation through sound and constructive measures and to increase employment. Assistance to industries in obtaining finances to improve their plants and to increase their stocks in anticipation of future orders are listed among the objectives of this group. Fred H. Scherff, secretary of the Marion Manufacturers' association, is assisting LaMarche as Marion county chairman in the activities of this committee. Randolph Eide of Cleveland is chairman of this movement for the Fourth federal reserve district.

The second movement aimed at increased employment is the "share-the-work" committee, which is also organized nationally through the federal reserve districts. Charles F. Michael of Bucyrus, president of the Ohio Locomotive Crane Co., has been appointed chairman of the ninth subdistrict of the fourth federal reserve district to further this committee's work. He in turn has named Fred H. Scherff as his chairman for Marion county work of the committee.

To Outline Program

Michael, Scherff and other county chairmen in the district will meet in the federal reserve bank building in Cleveland Thursday [illegible]

Miscellaneous issues up 2 or more during the morning, included American Can, American Smelting, International Harvester, DuPont, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Northern Pacific, North American, Consolidated Gas and Westinghouse.

Brokerage quarters were in a somewhat confused state of mind over the market. The advance was felt to reflect short covering to a substantial degree, but some fresh buying was reported, both from domestic and foreign sources. Foreign business was not large, but buying orders were felt generally to be exceeding selling orders. The dollar was again firm in the foreign exchange market. Corporate news included the announcement that Nash motor had ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, although for its quarterly period ended Aug. 31, earnings amounted to only 6 cents a share.

GRAIN PRICES TURN UPWARD

Opening Unchanged to Lower, Wheat Later Scores General Gain.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Grain prices turned upward early today after a hesitant start. New York stock market upturns had a strengthening influence and there were also advices that locusts were spreading in Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces, Argentina. Opening unchanged to ⅜ down, wheat later showed a rise all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off and subsequently advanced.

Advances in wheat values came after the market here sympathizing with Liverpool weakness had sold at a new low price record for the season. A decline in British exchange rates was construed as bearish as to wheat. Argentine advances included complaints of dry weather in the north, where rain would be desirable.

Evening up of accounts so as to prepare for tomorrow's holiday aided the upward trend of wheat here. Indications that the Winnipeg wheat market was receiving strong support was an additional source of strength.

There has been a decided change in the spread between Chicago and Winnipeg wheat prices in the last week, Chicago, December contracts shifting from 2¼ cents premium Oct. 4, to 1¾ discount today. Corn and oats followed wheat, traders giving little attention to the government crop report estimating 1932 corn production at 31,000,000 bushels over last month's official figures.

Provisions were neglected.

FOR GOVERNOR

GOVERNOR GEORGE WHITE left a Pennsylvania oil field where he was employed at rough labor "to learn the business" after his graduation from Princeton to dig for gold in the Klondike. Two years later, with a "stake" that amounted to a competence, he returned to the oil fields to become a leading independent operator. His financial future apparently assured by a mounting income, he entered politics. He was elected to the state legislature, then went to congress for six years and crowned earlier successes with a triumph in the Ohio gubernatorial contest of 1930. In the meantime, he had become a power in the Democratic party, serving as national chairman in 1920 and 1921. He was mentioned as a possible nominee for the presidency preceding the Chicago convention last summer. Seeking his second term, the governor and his family occupy the beautiful governor's mansion in Columbus and also maintain a residence in their old home, Marietta. Mrs. White is dead. There are five children—three boys and two girls.

DAVID S. INGALLS, Cleveland lawyer, legislator and aviator, is the Republican nominee for governor. Educated in Cleveland public schools, he interrupted his college studies by enlisting in the American air forces and was in the service two years. Returning, he was graduated in law and practiced in Cleveland. In 1926, he was elected to the legislature and served two terms. He was appointed assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, but resigned to campaign for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio. He won the distinction of being the only American naval ace in the war, and was cited for bravery by the British government. Since the war, he has continued his flying and uses an airplane frequently in his campaign. Ingalls is a son of Albert E. Ingalls and a grandson of M. E. Ingalls, both railroad executives. His mother, Jane Taft Ingalls, is a niece of the late former president, William Howard Taft.

1906 Machine Makes Run from Columbus to Bucyrus

The progress made in automotive engineering in the last 26 years was clearly portrayed when a 1906 model Ford was parked in front of the county jail yesterday afternoon.

The veteran vehicle, apparently in good condition and little the worse for its 45-mile trip from Columbus to Marion on the way to a storage garage in Bucyrus, stood in sharp contrast to other automobiles parked along State street.

The driver sat at the right of the passenger, and the hand brake protruded out over the running board. It was a roadster, one of the first four-cylinder cars ever built by Ford.

It is owned by W. P. Mehrling of Weston, Colo. His brother, W. H. Mehrling of near Bucyrus, was taking it to his farm to place it in storage.

Mehrling has been its only owner. He bought it in 1906, paying approximately $800 for it. Mehrling lived at Norwalk at the time, and used the car in his travels as a stock buyer in the vicinity of Willard.

The magneto points, according to Ed C. Walters, local Ford dealer, are made of genuine platinum, adding greatly to the original price of the car. This metal has since been replaced by a less expensive material.

The vehicle presents the appearance of a "horseless carriage," as such "contraptions" were known in the early days of automobiles. The top resembles buggy tops and the side curtains were patterned after those used on buggies.

The cylinder block, containing four cylinders, was cast in two blocks of two cylinders each. The motor fan, located in the conventional place, was banded by a heavy metal strip which made it serve the double purpose of a fan and a flywheel.

Mehrling drove between 25 and 30 miles an hour from Columbus, and pulled away from the curb at a brisk pace after a short stop here on business.

CITY SELECTS DEPOSITORIES

Routine Payment of Bills, Reports Mark Meeting of Council.

The Marion County bank, the Fahey Banking Co. and the National City Bank & Trust Co. were named depositories of city funds by city council last night. The Marion County bank will be given $150,000, and the Fahey Banking Co. and the National City Bank & Trust Co., $50,000 each.

The report of Mayor W. C. Phillians for September showed total collections of $50.25. Building permits totaled $3.50, licenses, $47 and registrations, $8.75.

Council also voted the transfer of $1,600 from the general fund to the hospital fund to apply on the bill of Probst Bros. for the installation of new boilers at the City hospital.

An ordinance providing for the payment of $9.60 to Fred Preuninger for services as a guard for city prisoners at the hospital was passed.

Two Bills Tabled

Two ordinances calling for the payment of $60 to Dr. Floyd Yeager and $50 to Dr. J. W. Bull for their services as city physicians during the illness of City Physician Dr. Kenneth Smith in September, were tabled until the next meeting of council when Councilman Henry O'Dowd objected to the payment until money had been provided by the finance committee.

The average hardness of city water for seven days from Sept. 28 to Oct. 10 was given as 11 degrees in a report by City Chemist Floyd Browne. On two days, Oct. 4 and 6 the degree of hardness, according to the report, was 12.2 and 12.1 respectively while it was the softest on Sept. 30 when the report showed 10.2 degrees of hardness.

Reports that persons living outside the corporation were using the city sewage system without being required to pay city taxes will be investigated. On a motion of Councilman Henry O'Dowd last night, the sewer committee of council was instructed to make an investigation and report at the next meeting of council.

Two Seek Damages

Verbal claims for damages were made to council last night by Carl Coffey and David Owens. Coffey asked to be reimbursed for damages to his automobile amounting to $19.20 which he said resulted from being struck by a truck belonging to the city service department.

Owens, while specifying no amount, asked that council award him damages for injuries he claims to have suffered when he fell in an open catch-basin on Bellefontaine avenue near the Pennsylvania railroad crossing on Sept. 9. He told council that as the result of these injuries he was unable to work for two weeks. President J. E. Messenger said their claims would be investigated.

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

company to consist of Gallitsen F. Reilly, Albert A. Reilly, W. C. Reilly, John G. Beck and Albert F. Riley. The contracts were for construction work on the sanitary district project.

Beck and Riley were the men named by the grand jury as having offered LaBelle the alleged $200,000 bribe in a separate effort to obtain the contracts for the same company. Their addresses were not given.

The three Reillys are brothers. W. C. Reilly is vice president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.; Gallitsen, a contractor, and Albert A., the associate editor.

Denies Charge

Albert A. Reilly denied he ever had sought to influence LaBelle in water district matters. He said he had seen Beck and Riley but once, and merely had given them information which they sought about the set-up of the water district. Reilly said he never had heard of the proposed company which the grand jury reported mentioned.

In addition, the grand jury charged that an attack by the Telegram on LaBelle "resulted in a loss to the taxpayers of this community of a sum in excess of 300,000."

The circulation "padding," the grand jury said, has been going on for the last six years. It was the policy, the jury said, of Walters, Morissey, two other circulation managers, L. L. Drake and John A. Finster, and of Thomas J. Dowling, national circulation director of the Scripps-Howard Co. in 1931.

The grand jury recommended that Prosecutor Thomas submit any evidence of alleged false affidavits concerning the Telegram's circulation to the United States district attorney.

Sherman anti-trust law by Republican administrations, the Smoot-Hawley tariff, and what he described as President Hoover's "scheme to reduce the price of American farm products" were responsible for present economic conditions.

The former Democratic senator branded the President as an exploiter of foreign enterprises whose "scheme," he said, was "to reduce the prices of American farm products," and declared that by so doing he "laid the foundation for agricultural bankruptcy."

Departing from his prepared text Reed launched an attack upon the last 12 years of Republican administration with a charge that "the Sherman anti-trust law went into the discard" at the start of the Harding administration.

Prisoner Gets "Best Room in House"

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Oct. 11—Samuel Insull, once multi-millionaire head of the greatest power and utilities organization in the world, today occupied "the best room in the house" at the Athens police station, while officials of Athens, Washington, and Illinois participated in negotiations intended to take him back to Chicago to face indictment for embezzlement and larceny.

The "detention" which the police effected yesterday when he was held on technical grounds while Greek authorities looked through his passports and papers, was extended later when the American government requested the legation here to ask for his provisional arrest.

Partly through the influence of American friends and partly because of his years, he was given the best quarters the station afforded and offered the best of food. He took only a sandwich and a glass of soda water last night, however thanking the officers heartily for their attention.

He declined to say whether he would fight extradition or go back to the United States voluntarily.

France Prepares To Supply U. S. with Wine if Prohibition Ends

By International News Service

PARIS—Wine-growers of Bordeaux, Burgundy and Champagne are prepared to deliver one bottle of choice vintage for every three persons in the United States as soon as prohibition dies—if it does.

That is for immediate consumption—a sort of wake over the Eighteenth amendment as a wine-grower explained to International News Service—on the basis of 120,000,000 population.

The matured reserve is 40,000,000 bottles, but there are 140,000,000 bottles of "green" wine that exporters would be perfectly willing to ship to warehouses in the United States.

Economists are anticipating a golden age brought by the sale of "golden liquids." Considering both Republican and Democratic platforms they look for a breach in the dike of Volsteadism in six months at the earliest and three years at the latest.

Wholesalers told International News Service they felt Prohibition taught Americans how to drink in that it made the country "thirst-conscious" and created a more widespread desire for wines, appetizers and liquers that were somewhat slighted in the era of whiskey and beer.

From 1906 to 1912 the United States annually consumed 4,000,000 bottles of French champagne and 30,000 gallons of claret and liquers.

The exports of champagne to all the countries brought in $30,000,000 a year but most of this money came from Russia.

While the French hope to dispose of their reserve stock in the United States, granted a modification of the dry law, there is a genuine fear that the bootlegger and clandestine distiller of today will be a serious legalized competitor of tomorrow.

It is admitted ruefully that the domestic brewers will have an advantage in knowing how to produce the kind of "liquid kick" that American drinkers have learned to crave.

The frequent complaint of American tourists that high-powered French brandies and cordials "taste like water" is proof to wine-growers of the new appetite.

Plans for a dance to be held the latter part of this month were discussed at last night's meeting.

AWAIT DECISION IN SCOTTSBORO CASE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Upon a supreme court decision today hinged execution of the death penalties imposed on seven Negroes for assaults on two white girls near Scottsboro, Ala.

When the nine justices might reach this decision was indefinite. Both sides closed their arguments late yesterday before a crowded courtroom, as police took extra precautions outside the capitol for a possible demonstration.

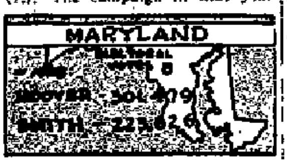
In the nine elections since 1900, Maryland has voted twice for the Democratic nominee for the presidency, in 1912 and 1916. The Republican majorities in 1904 and 1908 were less than 1,000 out of total votes of more than 200,000. Republican majorities in the last three elections have been substantial.

The Republican tendency shown in the presidential record has not held in state elections, and Maryland has had but two Republican governors since Civil war days. In 1928, when Herbert Hoover received a majority of 77,853 for the presidency, the state elected four Democratic representatives out of six.

In the state elections of 1930, Albert C. Ritchie (D) was elected governor with 283,639 votes against 216,864 for William F. Broening (R). The campaign in that year involved no national issues, and the personal popularity of Ritchie generally was credited with influencing the size of his majority.

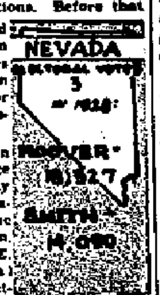


Maryland long has been regarded as a stronghold of wet strength.

Maryland has eight electoral votes this year, the same number that it had before redistricting.

* * *

Nevada has voted for the Republican candidates in the last three presidential elections. Before that it had voted twice for Wilson and three times for Bryan. In 1904 it voted for Theodore Roosevelt.



Prohibition and continuance of prosperity formed the major issues in the 1928 campaign, and Alfred E. Smith's repeal stand was credited with much responsibility for his showing. Nevada has been predominantly wet. In the senatorial campaign of that year Senator Key Pittman (D) received a majority of 8,101.

Campaigns in the state elections of 1930 were fought out on local issues only, and Republicans won most of the offices. F. B. Balzar (R) was elected governor with 18,442 votes against 16,192 for C. L. Richards (D).

Registration figures for this year's primaries showed increases for both parties as compared with 1928. Republican registrations increased from 19,386 in 1928 to 21,873 in 1932. Democratic registrations rose in the same period from 15,082 to 22,539.

Economic questions, particularly as they affect silver mining and livestock raising, have been in the foreground in the present campaign.

How Modern Women Lose Pounds of Fat Swiftly—Safely

Gain Physical Vigor—Youthfulness With Clear Skin and Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast —cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—the cost is a trifling and it lasts 4 weeks. If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at Henney & Cooper or any drugstore in the world.—Adv.

My Beauty Hint

BY GLORIA STUART

EVERY woman knows she must have a nice complexion or be forever worried. Cosmetics will not hide blemishes and no make-up will be satisfactory unless the complexion is good.

Health is the first essential for pretty skin. This is obtained through proper rest and diet.

For dry skin I use a good cleansing cream at night, then massage my face with a rich cream for about five minutes before retiring. In the morning I remove all grease with a mild astringent and rinse my face with cold water or ice.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get plain ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find too that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. No matter how much dandruff you have, this simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

In Its Twelfth Year

Maple Crest, this year completing its twelfth year of successful operation, is maintained entirely through membership fees paid by the state's 4,000 members.

A dream of Mrs. Sara F Gagle of Columbus, state King's Daughters president in 1920 and still active King's Daughters worker, was fulfilled with the purchase of Maple Crest in 1921 when the structure was bought from the Monnett heirs and remodeled.

It was largely through the efforts of Mrs Gagle in promoting interest throughout the state that the purchase of the home was made possible When Maple Crest was placed in operation in 1921 with Mrs. Elizabeth Dunbar as matron, only two girls were housed at the home. The number steadily increased until at one time, five years ago, 26 girls were being cared for. The home is at present under the supervision of Miss Sara Waldon, who has served as matron for three years.

Majority "Adopted"

With the exception of three of the 21 girls at the home now, all are "adopted" by individual circles, meaning that circles who have "adopted" charges, look upon them as their especial responsibility and provide their clothing, spending money, etc.

Maple Crest was dedicated in 1920, shortly after its purchase and before children had been received and the rededication this year has been planned for the same purpose as the first, but as a finished product. Former Senator James R. Hopley of Bucyrus, will deliver the dedicatory address.

GALION—Donald Seemann was rushed to St. Francis hospital in Columbus for an immediate operation for appendicitis Monday night.

Marion's Most Urgent Problem.

The Community Welfare association has issued an appeal which ought to get an immediate and generous response. It is to fill the needs of children throughout the city who are not now provided with clothing adequate for the fall and winter.

Many, the association officers report, are unable to attend school because they lack clothing. This is a deplorable and absolutely inexcusable situation in a community like Marion. The resources of Marion's citizens are ample for all relief requirements and if those able to help do their part in this important and essential undertaking no one, child or adult, will suffer from cold or hunger during the months ahead.

It has been truthfully and emphatically stated that the necessaries of life can not be provided for those in destitute circumstances by community welfare groups unless means and supplies are contributed by citizens. These units are well organized for service and are anxious to perform that service, but they must have support and lots of it.

Possibly there are some citizens who are not aware of the tremendous necessity of relief for the needy in Marion at this time. A little serious thought and contemplation of what it means for heads of hundreds of families to be unemployed for months should be sufficient to give everybody a clear conception of the situation. It should also be sufficient to spur into action every person in position to help.

The city's numerous fraternal, civic and social organizations could do nothing more commendable than to include relief service in their winter's program of activities and to give it first place. This is Marion's most urgent and important community problem now and probably will be for the next few months. The time to act is now, when the need is imperative. This winter will leave a dark page in Marion's record should there be suffering caused by negligence and indifference on the part of its people.

The call for children's clothing that has been made by the Community Welfare association needs to be regarded as a direct appeal to every home that has not seriously felt the effects of the depression. In the majority of these homes doubtless there is serviceable clothing no longer in use that would be a valuable contribution to the relief program. But unless it reaches the place where it is needed, it can be of no service. And whether the clothing gets to that place depends primarily upon the readiness of good Marion citizens to recognize their duty and obligation to those less fortunate.

Women Voters.

President Hoover, appreciative of the support he was given by women voters, in 1928, addressed them in a special appeal at the close of last week. His speech, in tone and substance, was closely similar to the one he had given earlier in the week at Des Moines, with the exception of passages in the latter concerning farm relief.

There is no mystery about the quality that enabled Mr. Hoover to enlist the support of women voters during his 1928 campaign. His popularity, then, went back to his service as food administrator during the World war. He was respected deeply for his administration of relief in European countries. Never before had women voters been given an opportunity to cast their vote for a man who had reached the highest level of politics by a non-political course. They responded enthusiastically: like hundreds of thousands of male voters they were glad to welcome as President a man free from political callousness.

That was Mr. Hoover's appeal in 1928. Four years as President have shoved it far into the background. National attention has been turned to a catastrophe fully as painful as the World war, which helped to bring it on a weakened world. In the hard years of the depression it hasn't been Private Citizen Hoover who worked day and night to bring relief, but President Hoover—politician, leader of the Republican party, and a certain candidate for reelection in 1932.

The thought has occurred to many that if Mr. Hoover had been defeated in 1928—if he had not been President when the depression struck—he would have been called upon to give the nation the benefit of his extraordinary talent for organization. In that capacity, doing even less than he has been able to do as President, he would be the logical man for the presidency during the next four years. But as President, his qualifications merely serve as the basis for a bitter political quarrel. Politics is indeed a hard master.

Sensitive to Injustice.

Because they are the most sensitive group of people on earth, Americans are obliged to do a vast deal of worrying about injustice that would be regarded as a sign of soft sentimentality in other nations.

Revelations of coarse brutality in the treatment of convicts at a Florida prison camp are a current reminder of this nation's sensitive reaction to injustice. The death of an ordinary criminal, because it appears to have been caused by the brutality of guards, has excited protest in every part of the nation. Charges of murder have been made against those responsible for treatment of the prisoners.

It is doubtful if such an uproar would arise in England, unofficial example of good methods for the United States in most matters pertaining to apprehension and treatment of criminals. It is certain that the accidental death of a man under displeasure of the Russian state would be followed by no such protests.

Frenchmen, inured to brutality by the inhumanity of penal colonies, would be willing to ignore evidence of injustice to a convict who needed to be disciplined. Italy, which deals out death wholesale to political prisoners, scarcely could be expected to notice the accidental death of a common criminal.

Is it possible that Americans are too sensitive to instances of injustice? Is it possible that too many moving pictures, books and treatises on the subject have blinded them to the necessity for harsh treatment? To confess the suspicion that this is true would be to confess a conviction that a strong sense of justice that demands humane treatment for the weak and strong alike is not an attribute to the people of the United States.

Vigorous popular reaction to stories of brutality to prisoners is one of the best signs this nation has to show its recognition of the fact that it no longer recognizes the right of any one man to have control of life and death in any other man. That right, when granted, belongs to the state, which exercises it only by due processes of law subscribed to by a majority of the people.

Thanks to Crown Prince Michael.

In a moment of abstraction when things past, present and future blend easily together in provoking patterns of thought a whimsical wonderment as to what would be the state of royalty without that important child, Crown Prince Michael of Rumania, crowds itself into attention. Among a goodly number of royal persons left with their heads and a smaller number allowed to keep their throne, he is king of news copy.

Compare, or rather contrast, him to the emperor of Japan, one of the really important personages in current history. Where a million people know the little princeling at sight and are gossipingly familiar with the interesting details of his father's ill-adjusted marital relations, not a hundred are more than remotely aware of Emperor Hirohito.

Contrast him to King George V of England, or to that engaging fellow, the Prince of Wales. Both hold the destiny of millions in their royal hands—at least it seems respectful to say so—yet neither can boast better press prominence in proportion to years than the little man who is such a troublesome link between King Carol II and Princess Helen.

The Rumanian cabinet has resigned; it is reported that the current tiff between Michael's father and mother had something to do with it. King Carol is described as angry and bitter over a newspaper interview in which the boy's mother accused the sometimes romantic father of cutting short the little prince's visit with her in London. Never did one child do so much to put so small a country on the map as Prince Michael has done for Rumania. At a time when King Alfonso sulks in Paris, Kaiser Wilhelm dreams at Doorn and royalty walks majestically in darkness, this bright little chap is doing his level best to keep the world conscious of the existence of kings, queens, princes and their troubles.

A Practical Professor.

Practical hard-heads, used to the ways of the world, have little but high scorn for the pronouncements of cloistered professors—unless, as sometimes happens, they find themselves in agreement.

A good teacher can give his pupils everything but experience. But experience, far from being a perfect teacher, can teach nothing but experience. It is not versed in the theory which points the way to understanding.

It is, therefore, with no little interest that a great many college professors who have learned to take rebuffs on the score of their inexperience and a great many hard-heads who have wished that they could grasp the significance of the things they have learned from experience will watch James A. Farrell's entrance into the academic circle.

Mr. Farrell, former president of the United States Steel Corp., is an honor graduate of the school of experience. As much as any other man in the United States during his active career, he understood methods of practical operation. As head of an industry with markets outside the United States, he knew, also, practical methods of foreign trade. The tariff, friendly foreign relationships, exchange, developing new markets—these were bread and butter facts to him.

He has accepted an invitation to conduct classes in foreign trade at Georgetown university. It is assured that professors who have been holding their jobs with the aid of textbooks and theories evolved in cloistered studies will be anxious to hear what Mr. Farrell, with a doctor's degree in practical experience, will have to say about such controversial subjects as, say, tariff for protection.

Comment of the Press

CRIME AND IMMIGRATION.

New York has more than ten times as many deaths by homicide per million of population as occur in London, and Chicago has more than 17 times as many. It is common to explain these facts by charging irresponsibility to immigrants admitted to this country, but the belief is not borne out by a study of criminal statistics made by the statistician of an eastern life insurance company.

The greatest increase in crime has been in a period when immigration declined steadily, and now the number being admitted is far below the number leaving the country. The cities having the highest murder rates are those which have a small proportion of foreign-born. In a dozen or more cities with few alien residents the rate is high, ranging from 45.3 to 54.9. In cities which have many foreign-born persons the rate is low, being 1.2 in Providence, 3.6 in Boston and 7.2 in Philadelphia.

The United States has a bad record respecting crimes of violence, but we only deceive ourselves when we blame it upon the immigrants. The causes of crime are within the nation and not from the outside.—Youngstown Vindicator.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Progress Toward Solving Mystery of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia was named by one of the old as "Captain of the Men of Death." This is an appropriate name, because statistics show that about ten per cent of all the deaths in a community can be traced to pneumonia. It respects neither age nor sex, and is particularly fatal in the very young and the aged.

New knowledge concerning pneumonia has been gained within recent years. It is now known that there are four types of the disease. Types "one" and "two" constitute about half of all the cases of pneumonia. Type "three" is the most serious form, but fortunately for mankind only about 10 per cent of cases belong to this group. Type "four" is a miscellaneous group in which are included about one-third of all the cases.

We are indebted to the brilliant work of those scientists who have awakened hope of a cure for pneumonia. These men have recently developed a serum, the particular serum to be used depending upon the type of the disease. Experimentation on animals has given encouragement, because up to date they have responded favorably to this serum treatment.

This marks, indeed, an important degree of advancement, for although our knowledge of pneumonia has greatly increased within the past quarter of a century, our ways of treatment have changed very little. It is now hoped that within a short time a dependable method of combating the disease and reducing its death toll will be made available.

Until then we must continue to guard against colds and infections. We must keep in mind that lack of sleep, excessive fatigue, exposure to cold and dampness and lack of nourishing food are among the factors that may encourage the development of pneumonia.

Many cases of pneumonia can be traced to neglecting the common cold. Infections involving the upper air passages, particularly of the throat, should be regarded as danger signals. Many of the infections of childhood, such as measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever, if neglected may lead to pneumonia, and when this complication occurs it is indeed serious.

Persistent cough, pain in the chest and fever are signs that must never be overlooked. Too often these early symptoms of pneumonia are unsuccessfully treated with home remedies. Complete rest in bed, careful nursing and medical attention are essential to complete recovery.

Daily Talk to Parents

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

MORAL INSTRUCTION.

Edith was so careless that she left in her mathematics copy book the sheets which she had torn from the copy book of her elder sister upon which two years earlier had been solved the same problems.

The teacher drew Edith's attention to the oversight saying: "You see you are more honest than you want to be. A part of you had to confess in spite of you."

The teacher then turned to the class, before which the little episode had taken place and pointed out to them that when we do wrong there always is some part of us that wants to confess. Sometimes it bothers us so much that we go straight and tell on ourselves.

More often though we do not have quite this much courage. Then our conscience which is at work without our knowing it, makes us betray ourselves in some way, so that when everything at last comes out we will be free of our feeling of guilt.

The teacher's purpose in this talk was to attempt to give his charges some insight into their own problems.

If the child realizes he can not do wrong without paying for it even if he is not caught, it must help him to consider in advance whether the game is worth the candle. And if he does wrong this self-knowledge must help him to find a short cut through the resulting conflicts.

If any moral instruction can help, surely it is this kind. It gives the child not useless abstractions, ideals which impress him only with his own short-comings, but the insight which may help him to control his conduct.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Oct. 11—The fact that he found it necessary this year to go out and fight for his own seat in the senate deprived Millard Tydings of Maryland of a campaign job much to his liking.

MILLARD E. TYDINGS

In the 1928 presidential campaign and again in the 1930 congressional campaign, Senator Tydings functioned as chairman of the Democratic senatorial elections committee.

It was his job to elect and re-elect senators to sit on the right of the dividing aisle in the senate.

Although he was a first-termer and at the time barely 40 years old, Tydings amazed some of the old-timers with his repeated ability to produce results. It wasn't long before they were referring to him as "Militant Millard." After the 1930 campaign, his Democratic colleagues officially dubbed him "Glad Tydings."

* * *

In 1928 the young senator made them all sit up and take notice at election time. In that year, despite defeat of the national ticket in the states of Arizona, New York, Washington, Virginia, Utah, Tennessee, Nevada, Montana and Wyoming, Democratic senators were elected.

And in 1930, he and his committee planned the fight which resulted in a net gain of eight Democratic seats in the senate, in addition to holding on successfully to two—for a total of 10, and bringing the party within shadow of control of that body.

This year, however, he had to relinquish his job to Senator Swanson of Virginia. Senate tradition bars a man who has a contest of his own from the chairmanship of the elections committee.

* * *

He was successful in getting the Democratic nomination for a re-election in Maryland, but has a Republican opponent for the general election on Nov. 8. And since Maryland already has one Republican senator, Tydings had to take the field.

Tydings, perhaps has come as near as any other man to exploding the time-honored axiom of "the hill" that a new senator is always seen but barely heard. He has seldom marked time in that body.

Tydings paints landscapes and dogs. He has written a book or two. And he is rated as one of the capital's most eligible bachelors.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. E. GALBRAITH

OHIO POSTMASTERS GENERAL.

Walter F. Brown of Toledo is the fourth Ohioan to hold the position of postmaster general. The others were Return Jonathan Meigs, John McLean and William Dennison.

Dennison was appointed in 1864, so that he had a relatively short administration in the Lincoln cabinet. Ohio had not held the office, then, for 63 years when Brown took office.

It was Granger appointed by Jefferson, who first scented through the mails the Aaron Burr conspiracy. Meigs was appointed by President Monroe and was retained by John Quincy Adams.

Governor Dennison had been associated closely with Lincoln, in the campaign, as governor of this state and afterward in a private way. His appointment was purely a personal one and probably was made with less reference to political assistance that he might give than any other one in history.

Europe Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Venice, Oct. 11—A refreshing sleep, and Venice, from a lancet window, seemed lovelier than ever. In the clarity of a blazing sun, sad, mellow palaces, domes and minarets shimmered darkly in canals and church spires seemed swimming sword blades in the dreamy light.

A dew-spangled rose lay across each breakfast plate, and I wondered where they grew in this network of waterways. The waiter said, the city was cleaner than ever before, attributing its spruceness to Mussolini. It was breakfast, so I didn't tell him about the dead cat floating in Grand Canal last night.

After New York's sharp perpendicular, all architecture seems out of kilter—like a modernistic scene on a revue back drop. Signor Silvey, over a steaming cup of American coffee, did not think the city would last long. But he has been gondolaing in the moonlight. And seems wan.

Outside of Cologne, Germany, I never heard so many morning bells, some harsh, some silver-tongued and one with a long sustained soprano note. No one appears to be in a huffy, save the police, who, briskly staccato, move about like clock-work soldiers.

I have heard, Venetian women have a grace and sculptural beauty no others have. This may be true of dancing girls at festivals, but those I have seen are rather stodgy, white-stockinged and unexpressive. Most of them would look at home in the brooding doorways of Mulberry street.

Throughout the languor of Venice is felt the alert undercurrent of Italy's dominating dynamo, Mussolini. A current story concerns his handling of a vendetta, in which five were stilettoed in a hamlet in Sicily. The total male population numbered 258. All refused to talk, and the entire 258 have been banished for life—with no hope of reprieve.

The best known American in Venice is Dorothy Caruso, widow of the idolized tenor, Enrico. She has a venerable palace in town and a villa at the Lido, is active in charity and a social leader in the colony from the States. She adores the Venice that Caruso loved, but her plump daughter Gloria at 13 reputedly longs for New York.

My knowledge of the Italian la guage is nil, so I find myself pu ting an "i" or an "o" at the e of English words. No one unde stands it, of course, but I have good time and it's my vacatio Italian is too elongated anyw The bill boards blaze today w news of a "prima rappresentazi straordinaria." That's a heck of way to announce a "first night."

I am not music-conscious, b being so full of fun and everythin I like the Venetian brand. The o chestra tries to drown the singe and the singers in purplish ap plectic strains try to drown the chestra. When all this fails, the suddenly combine and in extraor nary obbligato try to raise the roo It gives music a certain somethin

Venetian vittles, outside a lar variety of sea specialties, is ma ly veal, paste and spaghetti. I' been urged to toy with the toy oct pus that abounds. It is called cal maretti, but I made no promise Then there is the popular frutte mare, a jumble of tiny fish nett in lagoons. Venetians always a so steamed up about their moo lights, castles and old paintin they have never given seri thought to a juicy T-bone stea I'll trade my Peru bond for a sin gle share in a "T-Bone Toma Shack" in any side calle. In a bit of man-about towning found singular charm in the midg public squares, so pleasantly pe tured on every hand. Such brea ing spots though savored in sma doses, offer frequent and sudde escapes. None is larger than ball diamond but are stubbled w types—grandees with silver hea ed canes as well as withered ladi with half-fingered black glove And so on.

We dined at the never-clos Floriana, with its quadrangle outside chairs. mouth, and found it salt. The sound of the sea—and rock with a salt dampness upon it. . . The sea had been over this stone, and not so long ago.

He began to feel in his pocket for matches There was a box in his blazer pocket. He opened it gingerly and found two matches Perhaps his hand shook, perhaps the first match was rotten. It left a luminous streak upon the roughened side of the box, and went out. There was one match left. He struck it quickly, and it caught, the soft damp wood sizzling as the yellow flame took hold

He saw wet black rock—a drop to what he thought was water—and bars The match burnt his fingers, and he dropped it on the wet stone.

Jervis came with a tremendous mental shock to the realization of where he was There was only one place with a barred exit to the sea, and that was Old Foxy Fixon's Cellar? How in the world had he got into Old Foxy Fixon's Cellar? Why, there weren't half a dozen people who knew of its existence—Basher—possibly Janet Tetterley Who else?

Himself, of course—and Rosamund. The dark cave filled with pictures Rosamund on a visit at 14—and the very low tide which had sent them exploring along the foot of the cliffs. That was when they had found Old Foxy's Cellar At first it looked like any other little cave, but it went on, got larger, and ended, for them, in a sort of iron portcullis with a gate in the middle of it, a gate that could not be opened.

They had been very nearly drowned by the tide, but Basher had come to their rescue and made them promise to hold their tongues about the cave He showed them the landward entrance and explained that Foxy had used the place to store his smuggled goods, had put up the bars to keep out prying customs men

Jervis sat with his palms cold on the wet stone and recalled Basher taking them into Foxy's kitchen and down brick steps to a cellar that was surprisingly dry and warm—Basher moving a barrel and raising up a tremendous trap door by the iron ring in it—himself and Rosamund peering into the black uncertainties below

Well, he was in Old Foxy's Cellar—and what about it? It became blindingly obvious that it was Robert Leonard who had put him there, and that Rosamund had shown him the way. The question was what did they want? And the answer came pat in Ferdinand's words—Nan's words. "Who gets Weare and the money if anything happens to you?"

Rosamund got it And Rosamund knew about the cellar

That cold anger gripped him hard It turned in on himself He'd had warnings enough, and he had refused to take them. That taxi accident that hadn't been an accident. The conveniently rotten bridge over the ravine The wheel that had come off his car on the very hill that was over him now. Even that old business of 10 years ago on Croyston rocks He believed now that on each of these occasions Leonard had tried to murder him He bent his head and listened intently That sound of the sea, which had been faint when first he heard it, was faint no longer. He could hear it quite plainly With ton upon ton of weight behind it the tide was coming in

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Oct. 12

THE astral operations for this day, both by lunar and mutual aspect, seem to point to vexations, complications and a generally dubious state of affairs. It is probable that there may be petty annoyances and friction in many departments of endeavor, with some stirring about and rearranged decisions in contracts and associates However, losses, strife and disappointment may be overcome by the fortunate tendency to steadfastness, hard work and the confidence of elders

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which their natural inclination to industry, application and fidelity may be required to offset many annoyances vexations and complications in the affairs. There is hint of inharmony, impetuosity, sudden changing about the new arrangements in business and environment, but the shoals may be averted by calm judgment, wisdom and industry as well as the assistance of elders Sign papers carefully and beware false repute. A child born on this day may be disposed to change, hasty and impetuous moves and moods, yet should lean toward industry and steadfastness in its affairs

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky, as Soon as He Lands, Gives Fresh Evidence of His Unreasoning Jealousy of Hugh Grantland's Devotion to Madge.

I H... no chance to stop Mary, either by word or action, even if I had wished to disregard her injunction to me not to "give her away" in her determination to go to Noel and share the dangerous post that Hugh had assigned him Before she finished her sentence she had loosened her clasp of my arm, and at the last word she was off, skimming across the glade as Atalanta might have done, utterly ignoring Hugh's admonition to keep close to the trees.

There was no exclamation, no movement from any one. We were all disciplined in restraint in time of stress But Harry Underwood said quietly:

"Shall I bring her back, chief?"

My father hesitated only the fraction of a second before replying

—"No Too late. The motor's stopped."

Mary Saves Noel

It was true. There was no longer any whirring sound and we knew that Dicky with his "ship" was swiftly dropping earthward

Why did you let that girl go? He'll have to look out for her."

Across the glade in the light of the flares we could see Noel rising from his knees where he had been tending them, and inadvertently moving toward the center of the glade instead of the circling trees, as Hugh had directed And swiftly descending directly toward him, came a silvery something which we knew was Dicky's auto-gyro

What happened next we saw only imperfectly, both because of the darkness and the rapidity of the action, but we knew from our tal-vic and our deductions that, thinking only of Noel and with a glorious disregard of danger for herself, Mary had flung herself across the last few feet of space, and had dragged Noel to safety just as Dicky's boat gracefully settled to its resting place Indeed we only knew that she had succeeded by the absence of any crashing or rending sound, or any cry

"Made it, by the thickness of a mosquito's eyelash," Harry Underwood said jubilantly, but Philip Veritzen was clawing at my shoulder again

"Is he all right?" he whispered

I am extremely fond of Noel and I shall be glad to welcome him as a nephew when he and Mary change their betrothal bonds for marriage vows but for an instant I unreasoningly loathed him because of his kinship to the overweeningly selfish man beside me

"You mean 'Are they all right?' don't you?" I asked him icily

"That question would be more to the point, I think, considering that if it had not been for Mary's gallant rush and quickness of brain you in all probability, would be childless at this moment."

His hand dropped from my shoulder and for a second or two he did not answer When he spoke it was in more humble fashion than I ever had heard from the famous dramatic producer

"I am properly rebuked" he said "Please forgive me. I could think of nothing but Noel for the minute But, believe me, I am not unmindful of Miss Mary's bravery I shall remember it I can assure you"

"What did he mean?" I asked myself wrathfully, completely bewildered by his manner To my over-strained imagination, my excited partisanship, he was speaking exactly as he would of some strange, nameless waif who had risked her life to rescue another person Was he never going to abandon his prejudice against Mary, or the insane desire to have Noel marry great wealth or position which had obsessed him for so long?

I clinched my fists to restrain my overwhelming desire to slap from his face the satisfied smirk I imagined upon it. Then I forgot all about him as across the glade I heard Dicky's voice, the first sound of speaking above a whisper that had been heard among us since our arrival.

What Would He Think?

"Mary! Does this mean—is your auntie—"

He broke off abruptly, and I guessed that either Noel or Mary had told him of the rule of silence he was breaking. But there had been anger unmistakable in his voice, and involuntarily I pressed closer against the trees as I waited for him to come to the spot where I was standing.

I had broken my solemn word to him, and I feared that he would be too unreasoning to listen to the very valid excuse I had for what he undoubtedly regarded as treachery to him, and construed as evidence of my desire to be associated with Hugh in the rescue of Marion and Carolyn

WISCONSIN OUTLOOK BRIGHT AFTER 34-0 VICTORY OVER IOWA

Badgers Face Stiff Opposition in Purdue Tilt Next Saturday.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Wisconsin's rousing victory over Iowa Saturday may be grounds for suspicion that the Badgers are about to go somewhere in Big Ten football, but the cheering at Madison is being held in restraint until after the Purdue battle.

Badger supporters got way to some nice cheering in 1930 and 1931 after early season triumphs over major opponents, only to have little about which to shout during the rest of the schedule.

Wisconsin packed plenty of power against a heavy, slow Iowa eleven last week, but will encounter something quite different Saturday. Purdue, in spite of frequent changes in the lineup all season due to injuries, defeated Minnesota, 7 to 0, and outgained the Gophers by a big margin.

Michigan's regulars watched Ohio plays, but Coach Sam Willaman, irked by Ohio's failure to get better than a draw with Indiana, sent the Buckeyes through a long session which wound up in scrimmage. Indiana also was put right to work in preparation for Iowa. The Hawkeyes came out of the Wisconsin beating in good physical condition and Coach Ossie Solem indicated his lineup against the Hoosiers Saturday would be different from last week's.

Coach Dick Hanley told the members of the Northwestern squad to "quit playing Santa Claus as you did for Michigan," referring to fumbles and gave all the backs a drill in ball handling.

The Illini drilled in the rain, with halfback Dave Cook and Hunter Russell, an end, back on the job. Cook has been in the casualty list and Russell has just cleared up scholastic troubles.

Coach A. A. Stagg planned to prepare his Chicago eleven for the Indiana game a week from Saturday, and let the Knox game take care of itself, while Bernie Bierman at Minnesota, looked for substitutes for Gerald Griffin and Brad Robinson, whose injuries may keep them out of the Nebraska battle.

In 60 years of football rivalry Vanderbilt and North Carolina teams have met in but six games.

TYGERS-ASHLAND TO MEET SATURDAY

League Tittle May Be Decided as Murphymen, Hilltoppers Battle in Night Tilt.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Sports Editor, The Star

Having suffered a 20-7 reversal in their only N. C. O. start of the season, but holding two straight victories over non-league foes, the Harding High Presidents will step out of league competition this week and attempt to add to their good record against independent opposition. Bucyrus will provide the piece de resistance for the Red and Black machine in a game which will be played under the kleigs on Friday night at Bucyrus.

The other four N. C. O. teams will engage in strictly intra-league strife, Mansfield invading Ashland for a clash with the powerful Starnmen and Galion entertaining the Shelby Whippets. The Ashland-Mansfield contest will be played with the aid of incandescents on Saturday night while Galion and Shelby will stage their fracas Saturday afternoon.

Harding's battle with its traditional rival, Bucyrus, will no doubt hold the spotlight as far as Marion football fans are concerned. The nocturnal conflict between Ashland and Mansfield, however, is the really big game of the week as far as the N. C. O. circuit is concerned. The winner will be an odds-on favorite to take the league championship, inasmuch as there seems to be no team capable of halting the powerful attack of either.

Dope Means Little

On paper at this time the Bucyrus-Harding fray looms as "just another football game" but when the game rolls around it may turn out to be a vastly different story. Bucyrus has always been pretty much of a problem for the Presidents, a problem which for the last several seasons has proven entirely too complicated for Harding to solve. Two years ago Bucyrus plastered a 32-0 beating on the Red and Black and last season repeated the stunt by a somewhat smaller margin than in 1930, 12-6 to be exact.

The fleet footed Willard Talbott was the thorn in the side of Harding while the Redmen were racking up those two triumphs. Talbott is gone this year and Coach Alex Kish has not found any one who can come near duplicating his feats. As a result the Redmen have taken some decisive pastings this year, having dropped four straight games by scores of 71-0, 7-6, 19-12 and 50-0. Comparing this record with that of Harding, Bucyrus would seem to be in for its fifth setback Friday night but football games, as Marion has discovered to their regret on numerous occasions in the past, are won on the field and not on paper. The Bucyrus game is not likely to be an exception to the rule.

Great Battle Looms

Mansfield and Ashland are almost certain to stage a battle de luxe as the Ashlanders put forth a supreme effort to stop the triumphal procession of the Men of Murphy. The Tigers are going through their fourth season undefeated and the entire league is clamoring for someone to put a stop to the ever-increasing list of victories. Ashland is conceded as good a chance to do it as any foe on the Mansfield schedule but accomplishing the feat is no easy task.

There is nothing out of the ordinary at stake as Galion and Shelby clash. However, the game is likely to turn into pretty much of a battle with Shelby rating the favored end of the pre-game odds.

IN STIFF DRILL

Willaman Shows Displeasure by Workout of Buckeyes Monday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 11—Ohio State university football players today were doped to beg with comparative ease.

Members of the squad went about their classes limping and groaning from the effects of one of the most strenuous practice sessions they have endured this year. Usually the Monday after a Big Ten game is a day of relaxation. Not so yesterday.

Coach Willamen and his staff, showing their keen disappointment over the 7 to 7 tie with Indiana Saturday, started all over again and drilled their players relentlessly on fundamentals. Then they topped off the day with a scrimmage session.

Two players, Captain Hinchman, halfback, and Junius Ferrall, end, were the only ones who did not come in for the rough work. These two were nursing injuries received Saturday, but will be back in shape within the next day or two.

HALFBACK WINNING BATTLE FOR LIFE

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 11—Further improvement had been noted today in the condition of Myron Ubl, Minnesota football player. He has pneumonia and a fractured breast bone, the latter received in football practice nearly three weeks ago.

This is the first of a series of articles in which O. W. "Red" Severence, noted official, relates the humorous and "inside" stories he has run across in a long association with leading football coaches.

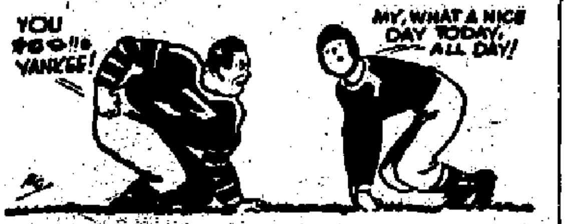
THE South's brilliant rise to national football prominence during the last ten years marks one of the bright spots of gridiron history, but a northern player paid the most appropriate tribute to a Dixie star.



YOU #@©!! YANKEE!
MY, WHAT A NICE DAY TODAY, ALL DAY!

Coach Robert A. Higgins of Penn State tells the story of an episode that took place in the New York university dressing room just after Tennessee had administered a 14-0 drubbing to the Violets.

Throughout the game, "Chick" Meehan, N. Y. U. coach, had watched Herman Hickman, Tennessee's great guard, break through the line and wreak devastation in the New York backfield. Hickman's huge, spot form appeared in the thick of almost every play.

And though convinced of Hickman's greatness, the coach wanted to hear from one of his own players an expert opinion on Hickman's ability.

Leaning over one of the exhausted linesmen, the coach asked, "Tell me, just how good is this Hickman?"

Came this startling reply: "Well, I'll tell you, coach. He's just this good. In the third quarter he called me a darn' Yankee and I made believe I never heard him."

SENATORS TO SEEK BATTERY STRENGTH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Power in the pitching box and brawn behind the bat stood forth today as the primary aims of Clark Griffith, owner, and Joe Cronin, new manager, of the Washington baseball club, for the 1933 season.

Cronin, who at 26 succeeds Walter Johnson as pilot of the American league Senators, talked things over quite a while with Clark Griffith yesterday. That was their decision.

First Baseman Harley Boss was indicated as the most likely man on the Senator string, to be disposed of first, since the club has the veteran Joe Judge and the youthful Joe Kuhel on hand for the job.

Don't Get Up Nights
Make This 25c Test

Physic the bladder easily. Drive out impurities and excessive acids which cause irritation that results in leg pains, backache, burning and getting up nights. BU-KETS, the bladder physic, containing buchu, juniper oil, etc. works on the bladder pleasantly and effectively, similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box (5 grain size) from your druggist. After four days, if not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. You are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Bowling Statistics

Rapping out a total of 374 for the three games, Miss Heininger, captain of team No. 7 in the Ladies' All-Star league last night turned in the highest score of the evening for the league. Miss Heininger, besides rolling the high three-game score, also had the high single-game total with a 231, rolled in the first of the three games.

While Miss Heininger was collecting these imposing totals, her mates were giving her good enough support to capture all three games from the No. 2 team.

Miss Malo of Team No. 5 was second high with 535 for three games and Miss Kerr of No. 7 was third with 392.

GIANTS GET YOUNG PITCHER, CATCHER IN DEAL WITH ST. LOUIS

Terry Launches Rebuilding Process by Sending Four Men West.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—"Memphis Bill" Terry has hauled out the big broom, swept four players westward to St. Louis and started a cleanup campaign that threatens to make the New York Giants all but unrecognizable when they once more begin their labors.

In a straight player trade, Terry sent Bill Walker and Jim Mooney, southpaw pitchers, Outfielder Ethan Allen and Catcher Bob O'Farrell to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Ray Starr, rookie right handed pitcher, and Gus Mancuso, young catcher.

Other deals are "on the fire," it was revealed at Giant headquarters and not a player on the team except Mel Ott and Terry himself, seems certain of remaining on the roster for 1933. There were rumblings that the Giants were trying to do business with the Boston Braves and Cincinnati Reds and one rumor linked the club in a swap with the National league champions, the Chicago Cubs. The names of Freddie Lindstrom, Hughey Critz and Francis (Shanty) Hogan were freely mentioned with the Giants casting coveteous eyes in the general direction of (Kiki) Cuyler, Pat Malone and Frank Demaree.

When he was signed recently to a two-year contract as manager of the Giants, Terry declared he would rebuild the club from the ground up.

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB BACKING FIGHT CARD

Kid Mondue, Headline Armory Program Wednesday Night.

The newly organized Marion Athletic club will sponsor its first boxing show Wednesday night at the Armory, with local talent billed in most of the fights. The show will start at 8:15 p. m.

Kid Mondue of Marion and Dick Dusenbury of Columbus will meet in the six-round main go. Other fights on the program are as follows:

Frankie Blue of Marion vs. Curley Shaffer of Galion; Johnny Hostetter vs. Clyde Wilson; K. O. Stout vs. Young Griffith; Charlie Merton vs. K. O. Brown; Ruffy Tuffy Anderson vs. Johnny Earl, the last eight all being from Marion.

Jole Caprino and Louie Sprocco, midget boxers, will open the card with a three-round exhibition.

The proceeds of the card will go toward equipping a gymnasium for the use of local fighters and wrestlers.

Most of the principals in the fights have been appearing on cards around this vicinity for some time and several have displayed real ability in swinging the padded fists. The main go promises to be a real battle as both boys work hard and pack considerable punch. In the semi-final Frankie Blue will be attempting to increase his string of six straight victories since entering professional circles. He has not been beaten but may meet a tartar in Shaffer of Galion.

Jimmy Conarly will referee all the fights.

RIVALS WILL BATTLE FOR SKULL

Wittenberg — Ohio Wesleyan

A human skull will go to the winner of the Wittenberg-Ohio Wesleyan Buckeye conference football game here next Saturday on Selby field. The game features Ohio Wesleyan's homecoming.

The skull, which became a trophy when the teams last met in 1929, was found when excavations were made for Selby field several years ago.

Local tradition holds that the skull is that of a fugitive Negro slave who died of smallpox here while on his way northward through the medium of the underground railway. One of the stations of this system of transporting slaves was located here.

Regardless of the skull's origin, it has now become the trophy for the winner of the annual Wittenberg-Ohio Wesleyan football battle, whose history began as far back as 1894.

Of the 25 games played between the two colleges since that time, Ohio Wesleyan has won 19, Wittenberg four and two were scoreless ties. Two of Wittenberg's victories and one of the ties are of recent date. The Battling Bishops haven't beaten the Lutherans since 1926, and will be out to break the embryonic Wittenberg string of wins.

Charles Vandervort of Portsmouth, fleet Bishop quarterback who scored on Ohio State with a dazzling 88-yard run, is one of Ohio Wesleyan's backfield hopes, while Harry Barber of Buffalo, all-Buckeye tackle, is a star lineman.

Earl Wright of Hillsboro, is Wittenberg's chief scorer. He's a fullback. Charles Hofelich, halfback, is another Lutheran scoring threat.

CHICK TAKES FIRST FALL, BUT MEXICAN COPS MAT CONFLICT

Auguayo's Leg Split Too Much for Texan; Masked Marvel Cops Bout.

Dude Chick, the battering ram from Texas, was given a few lessons in the manly art of shoulder pinning and bone cracking at the Steam Shovel gym by a young man from across the border, Francisco Auguayo.

Of course the Mexican did not win as easily as all of that. Chick is never easy for any wrestler and last night he was at the height of his roughness. In fact he was so rough that nearly every fan would have placed his last clean shirt on the Texan's shoulders.

But they reckoned without knowing the power in the lanky body of Auguayo, who claims the championship of Mexico. Chick, in the battering style that is characteristically Chick, won the first fall in 24 minutes with a series of body slams followed by a head scissors.

Throughout the match Chick continually avoided the Mexican's leg split, put on along the style strongly advocated with a great deal of success by Jack Reynolds. Fans probably thought Chick's plan of slipping through the ropes was somewhat of a show but the apparent terror was well founded. The Mexican finally made his hold stick and gave Chick a rolling split that made the boy from the Panhandle cry enough. The fall lasted 23 minutes. It took just eight minutes more for the Mexican to get another split and end the match.

The Masked Marvel, the man nobody seemed to know, developed into a mighty rough boy. He defeated Jack Brown in straight falls and in double quick time, the match lasting 18 minutes. Both times he used an arm stretch which he applied with jerks that nearly ripped Brown's arms from their sockets.

In the preliminary Ira McColley of Columbus lost the decision to Harry Miller of Michigan after 20 minutes.
